TEACHING

City and Regional Planning 2100: Reading the City through History and Law. Autumn 2018, 2021

This course highlights the movements, events, and issues that have shaped cities over time and have evolved into modern planning.

Comparative Studies 8100 & 8200: Interdisciplinary Learning Lab. Autumn 2020, Spring 2021

This yearlong course encourages participants to engage in sustained interdisciplinary research, to workshop their projects in conversation with one another, and to share their projects with broader publics.
In keeping with the model of the laboratory, the Learning Laboratory emphasizes the creation of shared spaces of experimental inquiry and the generation of knowledge as a collaborative endeavor.
